Why kids lie Most parents think children lie to get something they want, avoid a consequence or get out of something they don't want to do. These are common motivations, but there are also some less obvious reasons why kids might not tell the truth — or at least the whole truth. To test out a new behavior

Older children most often lie to avoid unpleasant tasks or trouble. With these types of lies, it is important to understand the reason behind the lie and focus on that rather than fixating on the lie itself. My own daughter lied when she was little about having headaches because she liked the flavor of the medicine.
